FAIRFIELD-SUISUN CITY, CALIFORNIA

Land-use to food online forum on calendar next week

By Daily Republic Staff

FAIRFIELD — Catherine Brinkley, an associate professor in Human Ecology, Community and Regional Development at the University of California, Davis, will be the keynote speaker at a Planning, Zoning and Local Food online event from 4 to 6 p.m. Nov. 3.

The event is hosted by Solano Local Food System Alliance.

Solano Land Trust and county-level and city-level planners will also join the panel to address how planning and zoning can affect rural and urban land use and support the local and regional food systems, organizers said in a statement. The panel will be ready to discuss questions, such as whether there are restrictions on what can be built on agricultural land, or what needs to happen to increase food production in urban areas.

Registration is required and may be made at www.eventbrite.com/e/rural-urban-land-use-planning-zoning-the-local-food-system-tickets-428822990107.

Anyone with questions may submit them in advance at <https://forms.gle/46vuohWxvUHTnE49>.

The Solano Local Food System Alliance includes a number of members with the mission to create “an environmentally sustainable, economically viable, socially just and equitable local food system in Solano County.” The group is supported by a grant from Solano County Public Health in partnership with the Yocha Dehe Wintun Nation.
