SUISUN CITY — A Community Climate and Resilience Fair is scheduled for June 29 in the Joseph A. Nelson Community Center.

"Learn about flood risks, nature-based solutions and share your vision for a more sustainable Suisun City," organizers with Sustainable Solano said about the fair.

"This is our third year of bringing a climate resilience event to Suisun City, and we are excited about the variety of speakers and engaging exhibits involved in this year's fair," Allison Nagel, Sustainable Solano co-executive director, said in a statement.

"This gives us a chance to get community input on future solutions for Suisun City, while also continuing to recognize the important work the city has already done to acknowledge and plan for increased flood risk – all as part of a fun event," she added.

The event is free and scheduled to run from 2 to 5:30 p.m.

The fair is open to everyone, but Suisun City residents who fill up a "passport" with stamps by participating in each activity will be entered into a drawing for one of 10 $50 gift cards.

The fair will feature Arts Benicia's Solano Water Stories art exhibit, a pop-up flood exhibit from the Exploratorium, youth-created environmental art, and screenings of short videos.
